

dreams & pride

live your fullest, most fantastic self

Dreams form much of our creativity. They're a good source of inspiration and fantastical thinking, hiding some of our deepest feelings.

Pride is a time to show who you are, whether that's in your dreams, or a celebration of yourself.

Whether you choose to share your dreams and pride with others, or you're not yet ready: You're valid.

Two themes this month?

Why yes – Pride is a foundation of modern art, and is a moment to celebrate for many artists and friends. Even if you don't think it's "you", support your friends who are different from the norm. Art is about creative expression, and some of the truest expression is in who we are.

Dreams are big sources of creativity, even if we don't remember most of them! The impossible is possible, and we can show that in art too.

Don't hold back: draw your inner feelings, your dreams, your pride, even if you're not ready to show it to the world. Your sketches are yours and you can keep them private, or share and celebrate.

Like the prompt?
Draw it and check it off.

Not feeling it?
Draw what you want and write it in the blank space.

This calendar is yours.
Miss a day? Drew the wrong thing? That's OK! We're all human. Let yourself make mistakes.

Draw them at their best.	Even when sleepy, it's good to practice fundamentals! Construction, perspective, try it.	More pride, more dreams; anything from this calendar or anything you want!	Draw your character having the coziest sleep. How many blankets? Pillows? Plushes?	The beginning of a lively night. Sunsets have so many colors; can you replicate them?

Go draw people.	Fancy clothing! Colorful garments! Add to a character to make them stand out.	Friday once more: dream up a scene or character, from this calendar or your mind.	If you've never painted the night sky before, this will be unusual! There's more than it seems.	Whether it's you or the friends you support, draw a character showing their pride.

Pick something you've missed from the calendar.	What's an uncommon, yet cozy, sleeping spot? Real or imagination, bring it to life.	More gesture practice! Confront on of the unpleasant ones. Draw the monster out.	What kind of nocturnal critters are out there to draw? Find some pics of them at night.	Last Friday of the month! Show your pride or your dreams and have a free day.	What's that one dream that keeps happening? How much can you draw of that?	It's tough to draw things that are in the dark! Give it a shot. Grab references!
